Opening Act

Test plan and results report, version 3
29 October 2026, evening. Supersedes version 2 (same day, morning). Covers the automated tests, the live run after the current-base and local-status changes, a self-audit of the acts version 2 called local, evidence evaluation on development and held-out cases, and the four-way comparison.

Summary

Area	Result	What it means
Automated tests	132 / 132 pass	Offline; Windows (Python 3.13) and Linux.
Live run	All Qloo calls HTTP 200	One /entities call timed out in the earlier run and succeeded on retry; the test now reports that as a warning.
Output	1 recommendation, 2 research shortlists	Nashville: 3 verified locals, picks filled. Atlanta 1 and Austin 2 verified locals: no automatic picks, leads listed.
Self-audit of v2	1 of 8 v2 'locals' still holds	3 moved away, 2 disputed, 2 not re-checked. Version 2's '8 of 8 correct' was wrong.
Evidence precision	0 false 'local' claims in 37 cases	Recall 67% (development) and 82% (held-out). 95% lower bound on precision about 78% (15/15).
Four-way comparison	Close to the LLM; never above the size limit	Local and within size, out of 8. Opening Act: Nashville 3; Atlanta 1; Austin 2. LLM alone: Nashville 4; Atlanta 2; Austin 1.

Read this first: the evaluation labels were written by the developer; the held-out labels have not been checked by a second person, and two development labels are now in doubt. Only 3 live cities. The LLM baseline is asked fresh each run and varies. Section 7 lists the weaknesses we found ourselves.

1. What changed since version 2

Change	Why
One local status per act: based now (source no older than 3 years, or Wikipedia), based as of an older or undated source, roots (from or formed here), disputed, moved. Shown with the source year.	Version 2 counted a 2017 source as proof the act is local now (Molly Burch).
Current-base check: one neutral 'where is X based' search per act with a local lead. Sources placing the act elsewhere, or saying it split up or retired, are recorded. The same scan runs over pages already fetched.	Version 2 never looked for contrary evidence.
MusicBrainz 'area' is a lead, not proof.	It is undated and often stale (Mamalarky).
Pronouns are read as the artist only while the page is talking about the artist.	A band member's bio ('He moved to Nashville in 2019') made Cory Wong look local.
New discovery move: the LLM names acts based in the city now; each must match one Qloo artist, pass the size filter and the same evidence checks.	With the stricter rules, Qloo's lists alone gave 0 or 1 verified locals per city.
Below 3 verified locals the brief is a research shortlist with no automatic picks.	Version 2 filled picks with non-local acts.
Inactive acts are excluded; city nicknames (Philly, ATL, NYC, NOLA) are recognised.	Girlpool (split up) was a candidate; 'based in Philly' read as elsewhere.

2. Live run: inputs and outputs

Inputs: venue capacity 800; size filter on (Qloo popularity at most 0.975); weights taste 0.5, local 0.3, size 0.2. Command: py -m scripts.live_smoke_test --record. Searches and page verdicts came from the 14-day cache (0 paid searches; the paid calls were made by the run 8 minutes earlier).

3. Self-audit: the 8 acts version 2 called local

Result: 1 of 8 still holds as verified local (Lunar Vacation, with a 2019 source). Version 2 reported '8 found, 8 judged correct'. That was wrong because its rules accepted old and undated sources as proof of a current base, and never searched for contrary evidence.

4. Evidence accuracy on hand-labelled cases

Each case asks: is this artist based in, or from, this city? A case counts as local when its status is based now, based as of, or roots. Precision = of acts called local, the share that are. Recall = of real locals, the share found. Command: py -m scripts.evidence_eval [--heldout].

Misses in pink. girlpuppy and Ron Gallo are now 'disputed': girlpuppy's own Facebook page says 'based in Brooklyn, NY'; a magazine says Ron Gallo 'is a Philadelphia-based musician, who has also spent time living in Nashville'. Either the label or the rule is wrong; we have not decided which. Alex G and Kurt Vile are from Philadelphia suburbs the rules do not map to the city. With so few positives, the 95% lower bound on precision is about 54% (development, 6/6), 66% (held-out, 9/9) and 78% (both, 15/15).

5. Four-way comparison

Four lists of 8 artists per city for the same show, every artist judged by the same evidence rules at the area the agent reached and the same size rule: the LLM on its own (no tools, asked fresh each run), Qloo without the city, Qloo with the city (no size filter), and Opening Act's shortlist. 'LLM on its own, local and within size' equals 'LLM list plus our filters'.

What it shows. Raw Qloo lists contain almost no verified locals and many acts above the room's popularity limit. Opening Act never exceeds the limit. Against the LLM on its own it is close: ahead in Austin, behind in Nashville and Atlanta on 'local and within size'. The LLM baseline varies between runs. The blind AI-judge rating in version 2 was made on the version 2 lists and has not been repeated.

6. Errors found by live runs, and their fixes

Run	Wrong claim	Fix
28 Oct	Identity mix-ups (Whitney Houston, Sault Ste. Marie, a tennis club); playing the city counted as local; label, interviewee, festival and blog sentences counted.	Identity checks; listing pages rejected; 'played here' separate; AI label only a hint.
29 Oct, morning	Side band, 'spent time living', 'playing with', 'my mom lives in'.	Current vs origin claims; negation, relative, subject and other-band guards.
29 Oct, v2 report	Molly Burch, Why Bonnie, Mamalarky local on old or undated sources.	Local status with source year; current-base check.
29 Oct, afternoon	Cory Wong local via his keyboardist's bio; Molly Burch's Wikipedia 'Based in Los Angeles' missed.	Pronoun tracking; participle sentences read; elsewhere-scan over fetched pages.

7. Weaknesses we found, and next tests

Weakness	What would fix it
Nashville's three picks all came from the LLM-named step and fit Khruangbin poorly (Qloo taste 0.24, 0.04, 0.00). Verified locals always rank above non-locals, so Margo Price (country, no shared tags) outranks Hermanos Gutierrez (0.69 fit, not local).	Require a minimum taste fit for an automatic pick, or rank by total score within verified locals and show the trade-off.
LLM-named acts have no Spotify listener count (Qloo /search), so their size score is neutral 0.5.	Fetch listener counts through /entities or skip the size score explicitly.
The LLM is poor at locality: in Atlanta it named Mitski, Soccer Mommy, Snail Mail, Pinegrove and the headliner as 'based in Atlanta now'.	Keep its names as leads only (as now); report how many survive the checks.
Labels by the developer; held-out not independently checked; two development labels in doubt.	A second reviewer checks every label.
Size filter is a Qloo popularity proxy, not draw data.	Compare with real support-slot bookings for rooms this size.
Suburbs not mapped to the city (Alex G, Kurt Vile).	Use MusicBrainz area hierarchy for metro scope.
3 live cities, 37 labelled cases, the AI-judge rating from version 2.	More cities; human bookers rate the blind sheet.
